

To whom it may concern,

The American International Accreditation Association for Schools and Colleges (AIAASC) team has carefully reviewed and endorsed the content of Growing Leaders “Social and Emotional Learning Program.” As we have been in substantive conversations with the organization leaders for some time now, AIAASC recommends the Growing Leaders Program for schools in the MENA region.

AIAASC began accrediting K-12 institutions in 2012 that offer an international program through American-style curriculum. We now accredit over 230 schools and colleges in 13 different countries.

AIAASC provides worldwide recognition of each school’s quality, accountability, and trustworthiness. Schools that meet AIAASC’s standards on quality education earn accreditation. Maintaining accreditation is conditioned by engagement in continuous improvement to assure high performance. Please note that we have a signed a partnership agreement with Growing Leaders and recommend their educational resources to be offered to AIAASC accredited schools – if desired.

We are pleased to have this relationship with the Growing Leaders program as we share a deep commitment to support students to grow and develop while also providing guidance for parents and educators to work more effectively with students. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ronald Kovach
AIAASC Executive Director
